Sitara's taken full advantage of the education system. She's studied marketing, psychology, PR and just about anything related to art, but most of her hacking ability is self-taught.

She thought moving away from the shallow LA culture to downtown SF would be a healthy change, but found hollow celebrities replaced by soulless tech giants. It's a perfect place for her artistic rebellion - where culture is being crushed by cold industry.

DedSec is her chosen tool to fight back and she's carefully crafting the SF group in her image, making sure every public message is on-point and every logo packs a punch.
